DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATIONS

The Department of Educational Foundations offers undergraduate and graduate courses providing the underpinnings of teacher education: diversity, philosophy, history, human development, educational psychology, learning and motivation, assessment, research, statistics, classroom management, and technology and information literacy. The Library Media (http://www.uww.edu/coeps/departments/edfound/library-media) and Urban Education (http://www.uww.edu/coeps/ departments/edfound/library-media) programs are also housed in Educational Foundations. The department also offers a 9 credit Foundations Block that is a requirement for admission to most Professional Education programs. In addition, the department also offer initial professional level licensure in school library media through an undergraduate minor, a graduate degree, or courses taken only for licensure.

The mission of the department is to foster the development of foundational knowledge, skills, and dispositions most vital to the future work of outstanding educators. Our focus is to identify common core experiences that provide the basis for informed, reflective, and efficacious practice, while also providing specialized preparation for various educational professionals.
